Charles Carloo's Gigantic Animal Circus. This is a most pretentious offering for any bouse, involving the use of secial scenery and effects, and carrying a carload of animals. Beautiful ponies, thoroughbred dogs, tropical and domestic birds and other animals got to make this act a postive novelty. What will probably be the laughing number of the show is the act of the Marshalls, ragtime duetists, introducing James R. Marshall, the phenomenal double voiced singer and ragtime pianologuist. Lillian Morelle will deliver the patricitic march song. "Heroes That We Know," with stirring illustrations of mational heroes. The Biograph company will head the list of pictures with their enthralling drama of heart interest. The Restoration. Milles will furnish comedy with Cinderella up to Date. Other pictures are Getting Even, The Children's Friend, etc.

Standing room only was the condi-tion at the Breed theater last evening, and that was at premium, for the exand that was at premium, for the exceptionally large attendance filled the old playhouse to overflowing the great attraction being the wonderful picture of the far west entitled The Cowboy Millionaire. This picture is followed by prolonged applause, the spectators seeming loath to have it withdrawn from the screen from the screen. A beautiful Blo-graph feature picture is among the other good things and carried the house with it, by its great emotional scenes, a splendid moral being con-veyed as well. The People's Singing Class is to meet in Town hall on Tuesday, Nov. 36th, at 8 o'clock. This is the beginning of the second season. The success of last year's work was in every way greater than the committee that promoted it ination, will be formed, and a means provided thereby for acquiring the necessary training to admit to the chorus. In this class the subjects of voice production and sight reading, as well as part singing, will be taken up in a very thorough way. The dues for membership in either chorus or the study class are ten cents a week, which sum covers everything, including a copy of all music used.

The committee invites everyone who may consider joining either the chorus or the study class to attend the meeting on Tuesday night and to help bring to this city the recognition of its musical interests.

I listened to the angel choir, mother-heard them play on harps of heard them play on harps of gold—nothing sounded as aweet to me as your beautiful songs of old—songs you sang in my childhood days, when you softly fulled me to sleep—nose dear old days when my innocent soul you prayed that God would keep.

And each night, when the world is hushed in sleep and the stars their vigils keep.

I'll stand beside you mother, and guard you while you're asleep.

Yes, I'll softly open the gates of pearl, cross the bridge from the angel land.

And God, who knows the power of love, will forgive and understand.

In heaven the roses never fade, mother, the songs of angels fill the air around.

But I never could be happy when you were grieving because of a lone-ly mound:

So I've stolen away from the angels, mother (heaven is not heaven without you, dear),

And I've come back home for an old-time kiss and your aching hears to cheer.

To screen it from mortal eye.

And hanging gardens that far away Enchantedly float aloof; Rainbow pavilions in avenues gay, And banners of glorious woof.

And gazing enrapt as the gathering Till the vision loses by slow degrees.
The magical splendor it wore;
The silvery curtain is drawn, and he
